

Task 5: Reflection With DIEP

I thought about the design projects I did in this semester according to the DIEP framework and presented the research methods and design theories I learned in this semester, especially the research on PACT and user portrait.

In general, the project went smoothly. I evaluated and analyzed the projects according to the project, and my advantage was that I attracted users' attention through visual language, and always took users as the center and considered users' needs.

I have also reflected on my shortcomings. I need to carry out several iterations to improve my design ability. In addition, I will continue to explore user-centered emotional design and hope to improve my interaction design ability in the future.

Fig1: mindmap about analyzing the DIEP framework

Source: from my sketchbook

List of Illustrations

Figure 1: from my sketchbook